Colder Products Expands Executive Team Jeff Domler to Chief Financial Officer

St. Paul, MN – January 19, 2007 – Colder Products Company, a leading global provider of quick disconnect couplings, announced the addition of Jeff Domler in the position of chief financial officer. Colder is proud to welcome Domler, a dynamic professional who comes to Colder with a strong background and many years of experience in finance and accounting.

“We are excited to have Jeff join our team of professionals,” said Gary Rychley, president of Colder Products Company. “He fits well across all functions at Colder as well as with his work team. Jeff has experienced the exponential growth that Colder is aiming to achieve, and he also has experience working for a large corporation similar to our parent company, Dover Corporation.”

As chief financial officer, Domler is charged with leading the finance and IT organizations. In addition, he will act as Colder’s liaison to Dover Corporation. He brings over 25 years of experience in the field of finance and accounting.

Most recently, Domler was vice president of finance for Cannon Equipment, a unit of IMI based in Birmingham, England. Prior to that, he spent 13 years with Remmele

Engineering Inc. in progressively more responsible positions rising to corporate controller where he was instrumental in the launch of a new ERP system. Additionally, Domler has held positions with Unisys Corporation and Price Waterhouse.

Domler is a CPA (Inactive) and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting and an MBA in Marketing Management from the University of Minnesota.
